My dear Parishioners and Friends of St. Agnes Cathedral Parish,

As we celebrate the Fifteenth Anniversary of St. Agnes as the Cathedral Parish under the leadership of His Excellency Bishop Kellenberg, we thank Almighty God for His blessings and in a special way rejoice in the realization of being part of this great parish celebration in this anniversary year.

85 Years in the Sight of the Lord

Eighty five years ago, the first Mass was celebrated in what is now the Cathedral Parish of St. Agnes. The intervening period constitutes but a short march down the corridors of recorded time. Yet, over those years, St. Agnes has seen written two separate histories. They are linked by their natural dependence on each other; they are distinct because of the very nature of what has transpired in each historical period.

The first phase, of slow, steady growth, but remarkable in its totality, covers the years up to 1957. The second historical period encompasses the 15 years from that time when Nassau and Suffolk were separated from Brooklyn to become the Diocese of Rockville Centre, and St. Agnes was named the Mother Church of Catholicism in those two counties.

From that day when on April 18, 1957 St. Agnes became a Cathedral Church, and its parishioners had the incredible fortune of being chosen by the new Bishop, the Most Reverend Walter P. Kellenberg, D.D., as his personal flock, the mission of both the one-time village church and its worshippers had unalterably changed.

The Bishop was our pastor. Our church was his headquarters seat. The great events associated with such developments meant new responsibilities for all the people of that church. They had to support the Bishop in his plans for the parochial good - and for all those in the Diocese who called him Shepherd. By their example, the people of St. Agnes had to lead the way for the entire Diocese.

How they responded both for home parish and those others abroad in the far-flung areas of the new See constitutes a bright page in the history of the past 15 years.

One man helped forge the chain of events that distinguished both periods. He was the Very Reverend Monsignor Francis J. Williams, who served the parish for 25 years. He was Administrator of the Cathedral when he died on September 10, 1967 in the midst of preparations for the 10th anniversary celebration of St. Agnes as a Diocesan center.

The growth of St. Agnes from a sleepy village church was unmatched under the guiding genius of the revered late Monsignor Peter Quealy, who welded the groundwork for what was to come. But the growth of St. Agnes as a glorious Cathedral over the past 15 years was the more dramatic because it was inextricably linked to the growth of the Diocese as a whole.

St. Agnes saw the seats of authority for the Diocese grow within its jurisdiction at the same time that its own parish plant was undergoing dramatic change. A Chancery building opened within a few hundred feet of the Cathedral. A second structure, equal in size, was to join the Chancery a few years later. The needs of the expanding Diocese had quickly outstripped the space and facilities available in the original Chancery, the converted five-story former bank building on Sunrise Highway, the major East-West artery through town.

While Diocesan headquarters was growing, St. Agnes Cathedral Parish grew, too.

Today, the Parish plant covers an area that runs roughly 1,000 feet north along Clinton Avenue from the Long Island Rail Road to Hempstead Avenue, and is about 500 feet wide. In that space are playgrounds, Cathedral, Convent, Rectory, High School and two connected Elementary schools under the able administration of Msgr. Edward L. Melton.

If one were blessed with a bird's-eye view, he would see within the village boundary a monumental complex, stretching over an area of almost two miles, that includes the Chancery buildings on Sunrise Highway, the Parish plant itself, and up near the Southern State Parkway, the vastly expanded Mercy Hospital and Molloy College for Women, both monuments to the foresight of Monsignor Quealy.

That's the way it is today.

How vastly different from the beginning.

The Cathedral is named for the virgin martyr, St. Agnes, who in the Fourth Century gave her life to save her faith and purity. It is designed in 15th Century Norman Gothic style, with, naturally, a high tower, 150 feet in this instance. The pews seat 1,500.

15 YEARS AGO ROCKVILLE CENTRE REALLY TURNED OUT TO WELCOME OUR BISHOP,
